

Secure Computing Selects Requisite Technology Channel Management Solution

*Leading Provider of Network Security Solutions
Looks to Enhance Worldwide Partnerships and Grow Sales*

Chicago, Apr. 11, 2006 – Requisite Technology Inc., a leading provider of channel management, eCommerce and master data management solutions, today announced that Secure Computing Corporation (Nasdaq: SCUR), the experts in securing connections between people, applications and networks, selected the Requisite Technology Channel Management solution to enhance their partner relationships and drive channel sales worldwide.

With thousands of global partners, Secure Computing was searching for a solution that could manage, track, and distribute leads, enable more effective communication among partners regardless of geographic location, and provide product configuration capabilities to support its partners' sales efforts.

After a rigorous vendor review process, Secure Computing selected Requisite Technology because of the company's proven track record in the marketplace, high-tech industry expertise, and financial strength.
